Mooney hosts medieval extravaganza

Doodlebug Chairman Bill Mooney and his committee came up with an inspired choice for a theme for the Friday night party – a Medieval Banquet. Banff Springs Hotel guests were astounded to see 300-odd Doodlebuggers in a variety of medieval costumes.

Japanese tourists lined the way between the cocktail party hall and the banquet hall as knights in armour, peasants, lords and ladies, wenches, serfs, monks and nuns walked down the hotel's castle-like corridor. The Chairman himself was magnificently attired in a Knights of the Holy Grail outfit, complete with rotten teeth and horse. Various members of his committee followed behind making hoof beat sounds with their coconuts.

There were reports of a drunken Doodlebug beggar actually receiving spare change from sympathetic Japanese tourists, so realistic were his costume and mannerisms.

The climax of the evening occurred when Mooney cruelly put Raymac to the rack, ignoring his pitiful cries for mercy as his body and limbs slowly but surely were stretched beyond recognition.

Kudos go to Bill and his committee for putting on a Doodlebug that will go down in history as one of the all time best.
